EXECUTIVE PROFILE

The Community Relations Association (CRA) was founded in 1959 to focus on employer/employee relations. CRA was started by the Community Development Foundation, and serves as a permanent watchdog over the region's employee/employer relations. This association of businesses and industry professionals operating in Northeast Mississippi is designed to keep employers throughout the region more efficient and competitive while their firms become more profitable.

The knowledge provided by CRA is vital to successful business management as well as effective human resource development. CRA provides timely updates and responses to changes in legislation, taxes, and policies effecting labor relations.

CRA offers a wide range of services to the Tupelo / Lee County business community, including monthly plant manager's meetings, monthly personal managers meetings and semi-annual seminars utilizing the leading consultants in the nation.

CRA staff is headquartered in Tupelo, Mississippi, and maintain a primary focus within the Lee County area. In addition, CRA assists companies located across Northeast Mississippi.
