

Tupelo & Lee County Mississippi

Location Map

SUMMARY

Lee County, located in Northeast Mississippi, serves as the region's economic hub. The County is comprised of nine municipalities and has a population of over 80,000. Over 15,000 workers migrate daily into Lee County from outlying counties across the region. 132,300 live in the Tupelo micropolitan area.

Lee County's industrial parks were strategically located outside of municipal boundaries for tax reduction purposes and to maximize labor availability and public infrastructure. Over 600 acres of Greenfield sites are available within these industrial parks.

Lee County offers immediate access to the national highway system. I-22 (US78) provides the major east and west corridor, while US 45 provides the major north and south corridor within the national highway system. The Burlington Northern Santa Fe and the Kansas City Southern, two class one railroads, provides rail service to Lee County and its industrial parks. Tupelo/Regional Airport provides commercial air service and charter air cargo service to our region.
